"Ever since I was younger, I have winced at the sight of injustice, and I have always wondered how I can make a difference. Recently, my eyes have been opened towards the issue of nuclear weapons. This past March, I joined Earth Caravan in Rome, where Pope Francis blew out the flame of Hiroshima. The fact that I was able to join Earth Caravan at only fourteen years old proves that any young person can make a difference in this world. It is my hope that together, we can make our world a safe, loving, and united home for us all." Yasmine
